Our Services

→ Individual Counseling

Through counseling, individuals can gain insight into their problems, learn new coping skills, and make positive changes in their lives. The issues that can be addressed in individual counseling are varied, and may include depression, anxiety, stress, relationship problems, grief and loss, and trauma, among others.

→ Group Counseling

Group counseling aims to provide a supportive and safe environment where individuals can share their experiences, learn from each other, and receive feedback and support. In addition, group counseling can help individuals develop new skills and coping strategies, build self-awareness and self-esteem, and improve relationships with others.

→ Random Drug Screening

Random drug screening involves selecting individuals at random and testing them without prior notice, which helps deter drug use and ensures that individuals comply with the rules and regulations.
